Combat troops will be sent by Pershing as previously announced. Gen. March declared the entire situation is extremely favorable to the Allies. The first national army division, New York troops, have taken over a sector on the front, March announced. Five American divisions, brigaded with British for training, has completed training.

Senate Rejects Amendment. Washington, June 29.—The senate today in consideration of an amendment to the $12,000,000,000 army bill, rejected 4 to 9 an amendment proposing specifically to "direct the president" to raise an army of 5,000,000 as soon as equipment and transportation are available.

NICHOLAS REPORTED EMPEROR OF RUSSIA

London, June 29.—According to unconfirmed reports today the Bolshevik government in Moscow has been overthrown and Grand Duke Nicholas proclaimed emperor, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Copenhagen.

Moscow, the reports add, has been captured by General Korniloff, supported by German troops. General Kaledines is said to have co-operated with General Korniloff.

The advisers declare that the supporters of Grand Duke Nicholas have overthrown the Soviets throughout the Siberian provinces of Irkutsk, Blagoveshchensk and Khabarovsk.

The defeat of the Bolsheviks is said to have been made possible by the victories of the Czech-Slovak forces and the treachery of the Red Guard. Several detachments of the Red Guard are declared to have murdered their officers and then surrendered.

Nikolai Lenin, the Premier, and Leon Trotsky, Minister of War, are said to have fled to the Murman Coast.

FINE SHOWING BY PONTOTOC CO.

COUNTRY DISTRICTS GOING RAPIDLY OVER THE TOP. CANNVASS NOT COMPLETE.

The War Stamp meeting at Ada Friday afternoon was attended by 3,000 or more citizens of every walk of life and before it adjourned $124,000 was subscribed. In addition to this $6,475 was subscribed at the normal for Pontotoc county, making a total of more than $130,000 for the day. Many who could not attend the meeting are signing the pledge cards today. The meeting at the corner of Pauls Valley, who is a member of the summer faculty of the normal. Seats had been provided for 2,700 the lumber men loaning the lumber, the carpenters' union donating the work and some colored citizens rolling out the 800 bales of cotton that were under the shed.

This morning W. C. Duncan, county chairman, issued the following statement:

"The returns indicate that the county will very nearly, if not quite, subscribe its quota. Meetings were held in practically every school house in the county and were well attended, but the entire population did not turn out and has resulted in compelling the 'chairmen' of the school district to make a personal canvass of those who did not attend."

Walnut Grove was the first school district to report over the top. Allen reported over early in the afternoon. Owl Creek with its usual pride in exceeding its quota, went over the top early in the day.

"In the city of Ada about $130,000 was subscribed out of a quota of $182,000. If the county fails to go over the top it looks like Ada would be the cause. Quite a number of people are yet to be seen and an examination of some of the cards so far reveals the fact that many people have failed to assume their just portion of our quota. Some, in fact, are ridiculously low. The laboring people and people of small means have come up manfully and those in default are among our well to do and most able citizens. The cards will be examined today and the pledges checked up and where the amount subscribed is too low the parties will be called on to make up the deficiency in subscription."

"One thing that can be said of this drive is that it has been more generally scattered and more people have subscribed than in any previous drive, unless it was the Red Cross. It has been the effort of this campaign to divide the burden upon more people and make it lighter on others who have heretofore borne the burdens."

"The full results will not be known for several days as in all districts where the quotas were not subscribed a drive will be made today and the next few days until everybody has had an opportunity to subscribe."

"One thing can be said is that every school district in Pontotoc county has its patriotic workers who are thoroughly enlisted in the war work. I am under many obligations to them for the success of this campaign."

Washington, June 29.—The army casualty list today contained forty-two names, divided as follows:

POSITION OF ALLIES BETTER

BRITISH AND FRENCH TAKE SECTORS OF GERMAN LINES BL' QUICK ATTACK.

(By the Associated Press) (Undated).—Attacking the Germans suddenly on two separated sectors French and British improved their positions greatly, capturing 1,400 prisoners. The British rectified their line east of Hazebrouck. South of the Aisne the French drove the enemy back, taking 1,000 prisoners. The French penetrated the enemy lines to the depth of a mile. The Germans show no intention of resuming the offensive. Fighting activity on the Italian front has been of a minor character.

BRITISH AND FRENCH MAKE GOOD GAINS

British and French troops Friday morning delivered two sharp blows against the German lines in France, advancing their lines and capturing a total of some fourteen hundred prisoners, the French taking more than one thousand of them. The British attacked in Flanders and the French about halfway between Chateau-Thierry and Montdidier, the attack being approximately 100 miles apart.

In the Nieppe Forest, which lies between Bailloul and Bethune, the British advanced on a front of three and a half miles to a depth of 1,500 yards. They report the capture of 300 prisoners and 22 machine guns. A few miles north of this point the Australian troops attacked and captured German posts west of Merris, taking forty-three prisoners and six machine guns. The official statement says "all objectives were gained."

On a front of four and a half miles on that part of the line between a point south of Amblemy and a point east of Montgobier the French advanced their lines, going a mile and a quarter at some places, and captured 1,050 Germans "until now."

The French statement does not say anything about attaining objectives, and the wording indicates that the operation has not been finished.

The Berlin official statement reports that "the Germans are busily engaged in attempts to repulse vigorous attacks by the allied armies north of the Lys and south of the Aisne."

In Italy British troops on the Asiago plateau attacked Austrian positions and captured prisoners. The Vienna War Office tells about the Italians directing their "ineffective destructive fire" far behind the Austrian lines in the mountain region. Vienna also reports that the Italians have been unable to cross the lower Piave despite energetic efforts. "Ineffective destructive fire" is a companion expression to "everywhere, at several places," coined by the Austrian War Office in the week.

(By the Associated Press) With American Army in France, June 29.—German youths of the 1919 class who were serving in thirty divisions of the German army are among the prisoners who have been captured within the month. Information shows that men of this class are at the front in still other divisions. It is known that these young men are placed in the regiments in proportion of ten to each company and that they are called upon in larger proportion as reinforcements to replace the men lost in battle. They were sent to the front generally after only five months of training owing to the haste of the German preparations for the present great offensive on the western front.

As usual Pontotoc county is making a fine showing in the War Stamps campaign. While the full quota has not been subscribed, many are coming in voluntarily and signing pledges to purchase these stamps, all are thoroughly awake and eager to help. While Ada has not pledged quite all of her quota, it is coming along rapidly and it is safe to say that the full quota will be met. No doubt many will readily raise their subscriptions when they see that it is necessary. Still others will be seen, if they do not sign up voluntarily, and asked to sign up. The nation needs the money and it is a question of either loaning it to the government or having it taken in the form of taxes, in case it cannot be borrowed.

NEW MEAT PROGRAM.
The demand for beef for our army, the armies of the allies and their civil populations for this summer are beyond our present surplus. On the other hand, we have enough increased supply of pork this summer to permit economical expansion in its use. It will therefore be a direct service to our armies and the allies if our people will in some degree substitute fresh pork, bacon, ham, and sausage for beef products.

The Food Administration requests all hotels and restaurants not to place on their menus or serve boiled beef more than two meals weekly, beef-steak more than one meal weekly, and roast beef more than one meal weekly. It asks householders not to under any circumstances to buy more than 1 1/4 pounds of clear beef weekly, or 1 1/2 pounds, including the bone, per person in the household.

The public will realize that the changing conditions of production from season to season, the changing situation in shipping, and, therefore, of the markets available to the Allies, and the increasing demand for our growing army, with the fluctuating supply of local beef in France, all make it impossible to determine policies for a long period in advance. The Food Administration has recently asked for economy in all meat consumption; now it emphasizes further reduction of beef by the substitution of pork. It is anticipated that this program will hold good until September 15, and the Food Administration most earnestly requests co-operation of the public.

NECESSITY OF FOOD RESERVE.
The effect in England of the greatly increased shipments of meat from this country during the past two months is indicated by a cable received by the British ministry of food. During April, 259,058,000 pounds of beef and pork products were exported, as compared with 161,000,000 pounds in April, 1917, and 43,700,000 pounds in April, 1914, before the war began. The total exports of meat products last April were therefore about 220 per cent of exports in the same month last year and about 820 per cent of those in April, 1914.

The cable which follows emphasizes the necessity for building up a food reserve against any contingency and urges that there be no slackening of effort on this side of the Atlantic:

"Thanks to the splendid response from America, the shortage which was threatened in beef and bacon is now no longer as serious as it has been during recent weeks, and the meat ration, which was reduced, from the working man's point of view, almost to the vanishing point, has now been restored to the normal amount under the compulsory rationing system. The willingness with which the population as a whole has accepted compulsory rationing and the success of the rationing arrangements have produced a marked decrease in consumption, and this also naturally eases the food situation.

"Supplies of butter and cheese, however, are still inadequate to meet the requirements, but it is hoped that imports from America will remove anxiety as regards our position in these commodities.

"The fact that it is now feasible to maintain the scale of compulsory rationing must not be taken to mean that there is any surplus of food in war such as this it would obviously be an elementary precaution to build up as large a reserve of food as possible in an island which is menaced by submarine blockade. No such reserve is yet in sight and there should be no slackening in American efforts to provide foodstuffs for the allied nations."

The "Know It All" Age.
In an article in the July Woman's Home Companion on "The Girl of Seventeen" this mother says:

"She is just past seventeen years of age, is sweetly pretty, innocent, refined, intelligent, talented, and is blessed with an open mind, particularly receptive, just now, to all up-to-date ideas in the dress fads, social stunts, ragtime melodies, jazz bands, new dances, and late coiffures. She is, in two words, my daughter, a lovely child of the period just arrived at the 'know it all' age, and represents the average daughter of this day, a replica of the daughters of other mothers.

"As for me, I am her mother, necessary to her as a housekeeper and purse-keeper, also an admiring audience of one for this very independent young person. A few years ago I added to these titles those of mentor, guide, teacher and comforter, but, to be a bit slangy, within the past year I have lost my job and have fallen from my high estate as leader and manager to the second in command. In fact, the tables have swung completely around and where, only a short time ago, I mothered my baby girl, it is I who am now being daughtered, who am being trained to look upon life, not as a sedate mother person twice and a little more the years of my daughter but with the eyes of youthful seventeen, who am being skillfully and tactfully imbued, by my very own child, with the latest ideas in regard to living. I am being lovingly required, nay, sweetly compelled, to change my ideas and opinions so that they may conform to hers."

CATTLE-TICK ERADICATION AGAIN TO BREAK RECORDS.
Washington, D. C., June 29.—Records made last year in eradication of the cattle fever tick and the release of territory from Federal quarantine will soon be eclipsed. The Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture expects to win more ground from the parasite this year than in any year since the co-operative federal and state campaign was started, in 1906. The 1917 mark of 70,749 square miles released from quarantine is expected to be considerably bettered in 1918.

Further than that, the tick fighters are going to smash through to the ocean. It is practically certain that all of South Carolina will be released from quarantine next December 1, the department specialists say. South Carolina will be the first state on the Atlantic coast to be entirely freed. Last year the anti-tick forces drove a wedge through Mississippi to the gulf. This year they hope to widen the wedge to the gulf and the wedge to the Atlantic, the cattle fever tick will be the victim of an encircling movement. His days are numbered. By 1921 the tick fighters hope to have driven the parasite permanently from American territory.

Mexicans Raising More Wheat.
(By the Associated Press)
Juarez, Mexico, June 29.—"Mexicans in the north are raising more wheat and more wheat" was the way an American mining man who reached here recently from a tour of the interior of Chihuahua state characterized the conditions in Northern Mexico. In the fertile Laguna basin near Torreon, wheat has been planted instead of cotton this year because of the ravages of the pink boll weevil in that district last year which destroyed the cotton crop.

In the little valleys near Santa Rosalia, Jimenez and Pilar de Concho the native farmers have been harvesting their wheat crops and have found the yield much heavier than in former seasons. Along the Rio Grande and Concho rivers in the Ojinaga district wheat harvests have been bounteous and the farmers in that district are prosperous. At Jimenez the old Hacienda Dolores mill, which was used as a fortress during the revolution, has been started to grinding grain and the water power mills near Santa Rosalia are again operating after five years of idleness.

GOOD RESULTS FROM MEXICAN EDITORS' TOUR

(By the Associated Press)
Washington, June 29.—The present tour of nearly one hundred Mexican newspaper editors through the United States is regarded by American officials in touch with Latin American affairs as far more important than it may seem to the casual reader. It is one of the steps which it is hoped may thwart the German propaganda in Mexico and defeat the sinister effort to align the republic south of the Rio Grande against the United States.

President Wilson openly recognized this factor when he addressed the editors in private audience at the White House, and then insisted that his speech should first be read by the Mexican people before it was printed in the newspapers of the United States.

"The stories of German atrocities in Belgium" said one of the American officials in touch with Latin affairs "do not seriously disturb the average Mexican.

"Of course, the better classes, those more highly educated, have the same feeling regarding the treatment of Belgium as the rest of the civilized world, but this class is comparatively small. The greater part of the Mexican people have seen so much horror in recent revolutions that another horror has little effect upon them.

"The Germans in Mexico have persistently impressed upon the Mexicans that German efficiency and forehandedness, as well as German valor, are going to win the war. Every slight victory is immensely magnified when related to the Mexicans. An example of this was shown when the pro-German press in Mexico reported the sinking of sixteen American battleships off our coast recently by U-boats when, as a matter of fact, a few coasting vessels only were sunk.

"The Mexican editors are sending back to their papers stories telling something of what the United States is doing to win the war. These stories cannot fail to impress the readers, as the Mexican likes above all a winner. The visitors have seen many things that very few Americans have seen; the wonderful work of our ship yards, munition plants and big gun works. They are more and more impressed not only with the fact that the United States is in the war to win but with the fact that the Allies with the help of the United States will surely win the war.

"This is the message the Mexico editors are sending back to Mexico daily—that Germany is doomed. They fully appreciate the fact that the United States has not yet reached her maximum of productiveness either of men or materials and that the determination of this country to make the world safe for democracy is unshakable. And they realize that when the war is over the United States will have a tremendous trained army.

Belgian Minister Quits Russia.
Kyoto, Japan, June 29.—Julius Destrée, Belgian minister to Russia, who passed through here on his way from Petrograd to Europe by way of the United States told Japanese reporters that the foremost reason for his withdrawal from Russia was that his country did not recognize the Lenin government.

He added: "Of all the allied ambassadors in Russia, I have suffered the most severe privations, having no adequate supplies of food and clothing, while the German influence in Russia has been steadily spreading. This is the second reason for my withdrawal. In politics I am a socialist but the so-called socialists of Russia act contrary to socialism as understood in my country; their deeds are not calculated to promote the interests of the state at all. This is the third reason for my withdrawal."

Mr. Destrée declared that in Russia today neither the automobiles nor the people pay any attention whatever to the necessity of preserving peace and order. He continued: "All diplomatic etiquette is utterly disregarded. During my journey through Siberia all my large trunks were closely examined, on the ground, I suppose, that the former emperor might be hiding in them. No Russian paid any respect to the flag of my country."

TERRIBLY SWOLLEN

Suffering Described As Torture Relieved by Black-Draught.

Rossville, Ga.—Mrs. Kate Lee Able, of this place, writes: "My husband is an engineer, and once while lifting, he injured himself with a piece of heavy machinery, across the abdomen. He was so sore he could not bear to press on himself at all, on chest or abdomen. He weighed 165 lbs., and fell off until he weighed 110 lbs., in two weeks.

He became constipated and it looked like he would die. We had three different doctors, yet with all their medicine, his bowels failed to act. He would turn up a ten-cent bottle of castor oil, and drink it two or three days in succession. He did this yet without result. We became desperate, he suffered so. He was swollen terribly. He told me his suffering could only be described as torture.

I sent and bought Theodor's Black-Draught. I made him take a big dose, and when it began to act he fainted, he was in such misery, but he got relief and began to mend at once. He got well, and we both feel he owes his life to Theodor's Black-Draught."

Theodor's Black-Draught will help you to keep fit, ready for the day's work. Try it! NC-131

PERU STIRRED BY "YELLOW PERIL"

(By the Associated Press)
Lima, Peru, May 16 (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The newspapers of Peru are much concerned with the rapid increase of what they call the "peligro amarillo" or yellow peril in Peru.

It is said that in Peru today there are no less than 300,000 Peruvians who have Chinese and Japanese blood in their veins to such an extent that the Oriental characteristics are prominent in their features and many Peruvian girls attempt to hide this trait by wearing dark glasses.

Formerly the Chinese exclusively overran the country, but during the last few years the Japanese have been arriving in numbers that alarm Peruvians.

The newspapers point out what they describe as a dangerous situation arising from the Asiatics forcing the native Peruvians out of almost every trade, by working much cheaper than the Peruvians.

The Japanese own and operate the majority of barber shops, the Peruvian carpenter has given way to Japanese, and Japanese servants are rapidly replacing the diligent Andine servants. Dr. Pardo, the President of the Republic, has thirty Japanese servants in his mansion, a fact that has been much commented upon in recent newspapers.

The Japanese also have forced the native workers out of the small trades and minor industries such as laundries, dairies, tin shops, newsstands, messenger services, small cafes, etc.

El Tiempo of Lima is one of several newspapers which have opened their columns for discussion as to how the Peruvian laborers can be protected against this invasion, in view of the fact that the invaders appear to be perfectly contented to work just as hard as the native for half his wages.

JAPAN WILL NOT SEND TROOPS TO SIBERIA

(By the Associated Press)
Tokio, June 28.—The German menace is not so pressing as to necessitate an immediate dispatch of Japanese troops to Siberia, said Viscount Kato in a recent address to the Constitutional Party of which he is president. "It is necessary for Japan to endeavor to conserve her national strength and this is no time for us to act precipitantly," declared the Viscount.

He was aware, the opposition leader said, that Japanese intervention in Russia was advocated in some quarters on the ground that there was danger of German influence spreading in the east to such an extent that German bases for submarines, airplanes and zeppelins would be established at Vladivostok. Another reason given for intervention was that the communism preached by the Lenin government in Russia was expected to produce a bad effect on Japan. The question of intervention, said Viscount Kato, should be solved chiefly with an eye to Japan's own interests and not in reference to the views of other nations.

Colorado Women Made a New Knitting Record.
The knitting of 224 woolen garments for 28 men in 98 hours is the record of less than a dozen women of the National League for Woman's Service in Ray, Colorado.

The women of the "dry farming" district of Colorado, had already raised money to pay for the yarn through oyster suppers and tag days. One Thursday came word that the soldiers were called for immediate service and that 28 were without woolens. Under the directorship of Mrs. Elizabeth Finch the women of Ray immediately set to work to supply a sweater, a helmet, wristlets and two pairs of socks for each of the 28 men.

Ray, Colo., is a region where persons work hard for everything they get. The women especially have as much as they can do to keep their household running. But in spite of their home cares, the women rose to the occasion, and by 11:50 Monday every one of the 28 soldiers had received his full quota of knitted garments.

TERRIBLE PLIGHT OF RUMANIANS

London, June 29.—(By the Associated Press Correspondent from Jassy)—Rumania is a desolate and barren country today—an awful object lesson of the cost of war. Two years ago it was one of the garden countries of the world, teeming with agricultural wealth and prosperity. More than 750,000 Russian soldiers lived in it and on it for nearly a year, and they left very little behind them.

Anyone who has known Rumania as she was when peace was forced upon her by the Central Powers, must be convinced that it will be years before Germany can draw from her fields and orchards any very valuable tribute.

Nor is the German control of Rumania's petroleum production likely to be a very profitable investment for some time. In the so-called "occupied territories," the destruction of the oil fields was so complete that Germany after fifteen months of effort, is able to measure her supplies from this source in quarts.

In the rest of Rumania, it is doubtful if production can be much increased beyond that of the past year, and during the past year petroleum has been one of the scarcest articles in the country, obtainable only under personal and special licenses from the government.

During the middle of the winter, The Associated Press Correspondent made a tour of inspection around perhaps a score of the frontier towns where the largest proportion of refugee population had been dumped in the hurried retreat before the German hosts. Conditions were serious beyond description, but the major part of the suffering was due to famine rather than to exposure.

The shortage of food was such that in many instances refugees were seen in the fields eating—or attempting to eat—grass.

Terrible as was the plight of the people of these refugee districts in war time, they can hope for little alleviation with the coming of a forced peace. Practically no harvests can be expected this year in these districts for no seed will be available, and moreover there are no agricultural implements left, nor any horses or draft animals of any kind. Thousands of Rumanian horses died of starvation during the winter, for the peasants were too exhausted in carrying for their own needs to make any attempt to provide for their beasts.

In France the horses would have been put to good use as meat for human food, but the Rumanian peasant has an abhorrence of horse flesh as meat.

LARGE GERMAN ARMY STILL IN RUSSIA

French Front, June 28.—The total of the German and Austrian divisions in the field from the Baltic to the Black Sea makes a very powerful army, which is under the command of Prince Leopold of Bavaria. There seems to be great uneasiness in Germany at the course events are taking both in Russia and Roumania. This is caused by the anti-German attitude of many of the Bolsheviks, the incipient monarchist movements and anarchist insurrections in which many former Russian officers are participating and the unexpected resistance encountered in Southern Russia while in Roumania complications have arisen owing to the expressed desire of Bessarabia to join Roumania and the exasperation caused by the cession of the Dobruja.

Further afield the situation in Macedonia, where calmness had been recorded for some months, appears to have become more agitated. The Allied troops have been displaying marked activity in local actions, which generally have been crowned with success. In this locality the Germans are now scarcely represented except on the army staffs, and the task of defending the front has been left to the Bulgarians alone. Their army is numerous and well trained, but shows no sign for the present of taking the offensive.

Most of the Turkish troops are engaged on the Persian and Palestine front where they have suffered severe reverses at the hands of the British. A very small force of German troops is dispersed among their divisions, where they act as specialists such as machine-gunners and grenadiers.

Hard work acts unfavorably on the body that is bilious or constipated; producing low spirits, weakness and loss of energy. Prickly Ash Bitters is a system cleanser and invigorator. It creates energy, good appetite and cheerfulness. Price $1.25 per bottle. Gwin & Mays Drug Company, Special Agents.

EXTRACTING POTASH FROM DUST OF CEMENT.

(By the Associated Press)
Pittsburg, June 29.—Extraction of potash from the dust from cement manufacture is claimed as a possibility. James D. Rhodes, a Pittsburg manufacturer claims to have made this discovery, and at his own expense has arranged to erect a large experimental plant adjoining the plant of a cement company, at Castalia, Ohio, for the purpose of experimenting for 120 days. The Castalia plant is in the hands of a receiver and it was necessary to get permission of the United States District Court, before Mr. Rhodes could enter into any agreement with the receivers. This was granted.

Mr. Rhodes said he could extract large quantities of potash for fertilizer from the dust and waste of cement mills that will be of great benefit to the country in increasing the supply. It is understood that the United States government is watching the experiments with interest.

BRITISH BUSINESS WOMEN CAN KEEP SECRETS
(By the Associated Press)
London, May 29.—War experience in the employment of women as bank clerks has convinced British bankers that women are able to keep business secrets quite as well as men. When women were first admitted to employment in banks the British directors and managers feared that some of their customers might withdraw their business believing their financial affairs might become the subject of gossip. "It is gratifying to think," says the Bankers' Magazine, "that after three years' experience of the new conditions, no ground whatever has been found for these fears."

CHAPTER VIII.

Nine Days in Luxembourg.
I was now heading northwest and I thought that by keeping that course I would get out of Luxembourg and into Belgium, where I expected to be a little better off, because the people of Luxembourg were practically the same as Germans.

One of the experiences I had in Luxembourg which I shall never forget occurred the first day that I spent there. I had traveled all night and I was feeling very weak. I came to a small wood with plenty of low underbrush, and picked out a thick clump of bushes which was not in line with any paths, crawled in and lay down to spend the day.

The sun could just reach me through an opening in the trees above and I took off all my clothes except my shirt and hung them on the bushes to dry in the sun. As the sun moved I moved the clothes around correspondingly, because tired as I was I could take only catnaps.

That afternoon I awoke from one of these naps with a start. There were voices not a dozen feet from me! My first impulse was to jump to my feet and sell my life as dearly as I could, but on second thought I decided to look before I leapt. Peeping through the underbrush I could just discern two men calmly chopping down a tree, and conversing as they worked. I thanked my lucky stars that I had not jumped up on my first impulse, for I was apparently quite safe as long as I lay where I was.

It then occurred to me that if the tree upon which they were working should happen to fall in my direction it would crush me to death! It was tall enough to reach me and big enough to kill me if it landed in my direction and as I could only see the heads of the men who were chopping it down, I was unable to tell which way they planned to have it fall.

There was this much in my favor; the chances of the tree falling in just my direction were not very great and there was more than an even chance that the men would be wise enough to fell it so that it would not, because if it landed in the bushes the task of trimming the branches from the trunk would be so much harder.

But even without this feeling of security, there was really nothing else I could do but wait and see what fate had in store for me. I lay there watching the top of the tree for more than an hour. Time and time again I saw it sway and fancied it was coming my direction, and it was all I could do to keep my place, but a moment later I would hear the crash of the men's axes, and I knew that my imagination had played me a trick.

I was musing on the sorry plight I was in—weak, nearly starving to death, a refugee in a hostile country, and waiting patiently to see which way a tree was going to fall, when there came a loud crack, and I saw the top of the tree sway and fall almost opposite to the place where I lay! I had guessed right.

Later I heard some children's voices and again peering through the underbrush I saw that they had brought the men their lunch. You can't realize how I felt to see them eating their lunch so near at hand, and to know that, hungry as I was, I could have none of it. I was getting tempted to go boldly up to them and take a chance of getting a share, but I did not know whether they were Germans or not, and I had gone through too much to risk my liberty even for food. I swallowed my hunger instead.

Shortly afterwards it began to rain and about 4 o'clock the men left, I crawled out as fast as I could and scurried around looking for crumbs, but found none, and when darkness came I went on my way once more.

That night I came to a river and as it was the first time my clothes had been dry in a long time, I thought I would try to keep them that way as long as possible. I accordingly took off all my things and made them into two bundles, planning to carry one load across and then swim back for the other.

The river was quite wide, but I am a fairly good swimmer and I figured I could rest awhile after the first trip before going back for the second bundle.

The first swim was uneventful. When I landed on the other side I drank till my thirst was quenched and then swam back. After resting awhile I started across a third time, with my shoes and several other things firmly tied to my head. Just about ten feet from the opposite bank one of the shoes worked its way loose and sank in about eight feet of water. There was nothing to do but finish the trip and then go back and dive for the missing shoe, as I could not go on with a single shoe.

Diving in my weakened condition was a considerable strain, but I had to have that shoe and I kept at it for nearly an hour before I eventually found it, and I was pretty nearly all in by that time.

That was the last time I ever took my shoes off, for my feet were becoming so swollen that I figured if I took my shoes off I might not be able to get them on again.

This stunt of crossing the river and diving for the lost shoe had consumed about three hours, and after resting some fifteen minutes I went on my way again. I had gone nearly a mile when I came to another river, about the same size as the one I had just crossed. I walked along the bank awhile, thinking I might be lucky enough to find a boat or a bridge, but after walking about half an hour I received one of those disappointments which "come once in a lifetime." I found that this river was the one I had just swum! I had swum it on the bend and was still on the wrong side. Had I made only a short detour in the first place I would have avoided all the annoyance of the past three hours and saved my strength and time. I was never so mad in my life at myself as I was to think that I had not paid more attention to the course of the stream before I undertook to cross it, but as a matter of fact, there was really no way of telling. The river was not shown on the map at all.

Now I had to cross it, whereas before I could have turned it. I walked boldly into the water, not bothering to take my clothes off this time, nor did I ever bother to take them off afterwards when swimming canals and rivers. I found it was impossible to keep them dry anyway, and so I might just as well swim in them and save time.

All the next day I spent in a forest, to which my night's travel had brought me about 5 o'clock in the morning. I kept on my way through the woods until daylight came, and then, thinking the place would afford fairly good concealment, I concluded to rest until night.

The prospects of even a good sleep were dismal, however, for about the time the sun's face should have appeared, a drizzling rain began and I gave up my search for a dry spot which would serve me as a bed. Some of the leaves were beginning to fall, but of course there was not enough of them to form a covering for the ground, and the dampness seemed to have penetrated everywhere.

I wandered around through the woods for two or three hours looking for shelter, but without any success, for, although the trees were large, the forest was not dense, and there was practically no brush or shrubbery. Consequently one could get a fairly clear view for some distance, and I knew it would be unwise to drop off to sleep just any place, or someone would surely happen on to me.

Once I came very near to the ends of the woods and heard voices of men driving by in a wagon, but I couldn't make out just what they were, and instinct told me I had better not come out of the woods, so I turned back. Here and there small artificial ditches had been dug, which at a dry season might have cradled a weedy fugitive, but now they, too, were filled with water. Once I singled out a good big tree and large branches and thought I might climb into it and go to sleep, but the longer I looked at it the more I realized that it would require more energy than I had in my present weak and exhausted condition, so didn't attempt that.

Finally I chose a spot that looked a bit drier than the rest, concluded to take a chance on being discovered and threw myself down for a nap. I was extremely nervous, though, throughout that whole day, and would scarcely get settled into a comfortable position and doze off for a few minutes when, startled by some sound in the woods, I would suddenly awake.

After what seemed like a year or more, night finally came, and with a "dud" sky, low-hanging clouds and still more rain. There was not a star in the sky, of course, and that made it very bad, because without the aid of the stars I had absolutely no way of knowing which direction I was going. It was just a case of taking a chance. I probably would have been better off if I had simply picked out a place and stayed there until the weather improved, but naturally I was impatient to be on my way when each day without food only lessened my strength and my ultimate chances of reaching the frontier.

So I left the woods and struck off in the direction which I thought was north. I hadn't been at all sure of my bearings the day before, and as it had rained the sun failed entirely to help me out, but I was almost sure I had the right direction and trusted to luck. That night I found more rivers, canals and swamps than I ever found in my life before, but I had the good fortune to stumble on to some celery, and after my diet of beets it surely was a treat. Perhaps it's unnecessary to add that I took on a good supply of celery and for days I went along chewing celery like a cow would a cud.

Along towards morning, when I supposed I had gotten in a fairly good lap of my journey—perhaps seven or eight miles—I began to recognize certain objects as familiar landmarks. At least, I thought I had seen them before and as I traveled along I knew positively I had seen certain objects very recently. Off at my right—not over a quarter of a mile—I noticed some fairly good sized woods and thought I would go over there to hide that day, because it looked as though the sun was going to shine and I hoped to get my clothes dry, and perhaps get a decent sleep. I had this celery and a large beet, so I knew I would be able to live the day through.

Finally I made my way over to the woods. It was still too dark in among the trees to do much in the way of selecting my quarters for the day and I could not go a step farther. So I waited on the edge of the forest until dawn and then set out to explore the place, with a view to finding some nook where I might sleep. Imagine my disgust, and discouragement, too, when an hour or so later I came upon the exact place where I had spent the day before, and I realized that all night long I had been circling the very woods I was trying to get away from. I think perhaps I had gone all of a quarter of a mile in the right direction, but then had lost my bearings entirely, and daylight found me with nothing accomplished. The sun, however, did come out that day, and I welcomed its warm rays, as they, perhaps, have never been welcomed before. I was very tired—just about all in—but I spent a better day in the woods than the previous one.

That night the stars came out; I located my friend, the North Star, and tried to make up for lost time. But when one is making only seven or eight miles a day, or rather a night, one night lost means a whole lot, especially when each day keeps him from freedom. Such ill fortune and discouragements as this were harder to endure, I believe, than the actual hunger, and the accompanying worry naturally reduced my weight. At times I was furiously angry with myself for the mistakes I made and the foolish things I did, but I always tried to see something funny about the situation, whatever it might be, that relieved the strain of habit and helped to pass the time away. I think if a man is overburdened with a sense of humor and wants to get rid of it, this trip I took would be an excellent remedy for it. Right at this time I would have welcomed anything for a companion. I believe even a snake would have been a Godsend to me.

With a name as Irish as mine, it is only natural that I looked for goats along the way, thinking that I might be able to milk them. There are very few cows in this country, and the opportunities for milking them fewer than the cows themselves because they are housed in barns adjoining the homes and always alertly watched by their fortunate owners. I did hope that I might find a goat staked out some place in the fields, but in all my travels I never saw a goat or a pig, and only a few cows. Several times I searched nests for eggs, but somebody always had beaten me to it, as I never even found so much as a nest egg.

There was no chance of getting away with any "bullying" stuff in Luxembourg. I knew, because the young men have not been forced into the army and are still at home, and as they are decidedly pro-German, it would have been pretty hard for me to demand anything in that part of the country. It was not like taking things away from old men and women or robbing people that could not stop me if they chose to do so. I thought at this time that I was suffering about the worst hardships any human being could ever be called upon to endure, but I was later to find that the best of my journey was made along about this time. There were plenty of vegetables, even though they were raw, and these were much better than the things I was afterwards compelled to eat or go without.

We frequently hear of men who have lived for a certain number of days on their own resources in the woods just on a bet or to prove that the "back-to-nature" theory still has the merits and will still work. My advice to some of those nature seekers is that if in the future they wish to make a real good record, try the little countries of Luxembourg and Belgium with a slice of Germany thrown in. I suppose that during this experience of mine I made many mistakes and traveled many unnecessary miles which one with a knowledge of woodland might have avoided and I failed to take advantage of many things which would have been quite apparent to one who knew. It must not be forgotten, however, that I did not undertake this adventure voluntarily. It was "wished on me." I simply had to make the most of the knowledge I had.

About this time blisters began to appear on my legs and my knees swelled. In addition I was pretty well convinced that I had lost the sight of my left eye. I hadn't seen a thing out of it since my leap from the train. When I imagine the villainous appearance I must have presented at this time—my unhealed wounds, eighteen days' growth of beard and general haggard and unkempt visage—I think the fear I felt about meeting strangers was perhaps unwarranted. The chances are they would have been infinitely more scared than I!

As it was, I was nearly out of Luxembourg before I came face to face with anyone. It was about 6 o'clock in the morning and I was traveling along a regular path. Just as I was approaching a cross-path, I heard footsteps coming down it. I stopped short, stooped over and pretended to be adjusting my shoelace, figuring that if the stranger turned into my path he would probably pass right by me. As luck would have it, he continued on his way and never noticed me at all.

After that I frequently noticed groups of Luxembourg peasants in the distance but I usually saw them first and managed to avoid them. On the eighteenth day after my leap from the train I crossed into Belgium. It had taken me just nine days to get through Luxembourg—a distance which a man could ordinarily cover in two, but considering the handicaps under which I labored I was very well satisfied with my progress.

SAXONY REFUSES TO OBEY KAISER'S ORDER.

(By the Associated Press)
New York, June 28.—The government of Saxony has refused to comply with the German Imperial law providing for a new uniform ration of food for the whole German Empire because there has been failure of crops in Saxony, says a Dresden dispatch to the Berlin Tageblatt, a copy of which has been received here. The dispatch stated that the Saxon authorities had declined to reduce the daily bread ration of the Saxon people.

Announcement by the German food controller that Germany had sent 400,000 pounds of potatoes to Bohemia evoked a protest from a socialist member of the Prussian Diet who said he did not understand how food could be sent to Bohemia when the Germans were suffering from a shortage of it.

What Will the Women Do?
London, June 28.—Divergent views were expressed recently in two public speeches on the question "will women return to their homes from the factories and the fields after the war?"

F. G. Kellaway, parliamentary secretary to the munitions ministry said "women have come to stay. They have come to increase the wealth of this country. The ministry of munitions has recognized their worth and has acted accordingly in the arrangement of wages. That arrangement forms the charter for women in the future. It has put women on an assured basis."

Lieutenant General Sir Edward Hutton, speaking at Chertsey said: "Women understand their sphere of work far too well to interfere with men-folk when the men return from the front. Men will find their jobs all available and women will return to their homes and womanly duties in the social world quite naturally but much better for having shown what they can do in a time of great national emergency."

For the convenience of the public the News is carrying on sale a supply of Thrift Stamps and War Savings Certificates.

The Soldier's Bed. (By the Associated Press) Paris, June 29.—Go where you may behind the Allied lines in France one style of bed predominates. It is crude but comfortable and very popular among the troops.

The bed measures about six feet long by two and one-half feet wide. The frame work is made of any material that happens to be available, and the support is wire netting or sand-bags securely nailed. The legs stand about eighteen inches from the floor. Where the men obtain the material for their beds is a mystery. In the trenches, of course, no beds are to be had. A waterproof sheet and a single blanket usually suffice. In the trench dug-outs officers have straw to sleep on, the utmost comforts they can expect.

Men on leave from the trenches say that for the first few nights they are unable to sleep between sheets on a soft spring bed.

PONTOTOC COUNTY GETS HIGH COMPLIMENTS

That Pontotoc county has the best crop prospects in the state of Oklahoma and that the rural sections of the county exhibit more real prosperity than any other part of the state, is the opinion of C. W. Callarman, district agricultural agent for this territory. Mr. Callarman travels extensively over practically all the state and he has observed the conditions in most of the counties.

There are several causes for this, thinks J. B. Hill, county Demonstration agent. One of the causes is that we have had good seasons this year. Another cause is that the citizens of this county realize that they must work extra time and produce extra stuff in order to help win the war. The people are doing everything in their power to drive away want and have a big supply of food left for the Sammies in Europe.

KELTNER MINING COMPANY GETS ORE AND WATER. The Keltner Mining Company made a rich strike in the field shaft of their mine 4 miles east of Picher the last of the week.

A good run of ore was discovered and water broke in at the same time, which was as welcome as the ore, as the big mill has been down for several weeks on account of the pond having been drained by an old drill hole that had been overlooked.

A pipe line had been laid from the Mahutsky mine a few hundred feet away but it is thought that the water from the shaft will be sufficient for milling purposes.

The Keltner mill only operated 112 hours before it was shut down on account of a lack of water but in that time 61 tons of ore were recovered. A four inch pump is being installed in the field shaft.—Miami Record-Herald.

NORMAL STRONG FOR WAR STAMPS

STUDENTS AND FACULTY SUBSCRIBE MORE THAN $18,000 FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Promptly at 2 p. m. yesterday at East Central Normal further recitations of the day were dispensed with and the faculty and student body gathered in what proved to be the most largely attended chapel assembly since the first meeting of the summer term. After a short program was rendered consisting of patriotic songs, an invocation by Mr. Molloy, and the reading by Miss Rodger of Geo. W. Barnes' proclamation, the matter of taking pledges was taken up. Each county had been thoroughly organized and patriotic enthusiasm was manifest throughout the entire school.

A brief and further explanation of the war saving stamp proposition was made by Mr. Ericson, who is the chairman for the normal, and the pledges were taken by groups consisting of the eleven official counties, other counties and other states. When it is considered that of the 738 students enrolled during the summer quite a good many have withdrawn, and further that many of the students are quite young, it is felt that the showing made is very gratifying and is indicative of the interest schools are taking in the war work. 575 people pledged an average of more than $30.00 each.

The name of the county subscribing, number of people in that county pledging themselves, and the amount subscribed, are given in the list below. This includes faculty members as well as students.

YELLOW PAINT ON TWO FRONTS

LANCASTER CAFE AND POSTOFFICE NEWS STAND RECEIVE ATTENTION.

Friday night the glass fronts and side walks of O. E. Lancaster's cafe and G. F. Withers' news stand in the lobby of the postoffice were given a liberal application of yellow paint, the words "slacker" and "pro-German" being the most conspicuous. The painting followed the failure of these two places to close for the War Stamp meeting Friday afternoon.

Mr. Lancaster states that his house was full of people who were eating when the closing hour arrived and not feeling like turning them out without ceremony, he remained open but sent his check for $100 to buy stamps.

Mr. Withers states that he was anxious to close, but that the postoffice lobby being open, and he having no authority to close it, he left his clerk in charge to look after it while he and his wife attended the meeting and signed a pledge for $100 of stamps. He says if he is looked on as a profiteer he will turn over to the Red Cross all of the receipts of his stand during the closing hours.

Both parties bitterly resent the application of slacker.

"Junker." "Junker" is a man of some birth and of inherited property, especially land. The word is used to describe those large class of Prussians who come of noble, semineoble or at least old and "good" families, and whose worldly possessions are such as to give them an appreciable stake in the government.—Boston Globe.
